Chamber to define role

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce is embarking on a new year with a new President who feels the first step toward increasing interest in the Chamber is to define its role in the community. Louise Crane and her new executive will be meeting this week to come up with a role statement, as well as a list of committee chairs, in readiness for the March 3 meeting.

As a newcomer to the community last spring, Ms Crane said she needed to know "where do I go for this and that," and feels that information of this kind is essential for those coming to the community. Making this information readily available is one of the Chamber's roles, she feels.

Chamber membership and meetings must also be a benefit to the businesses involved, Ms Crane said. She feels one way this can be achieved through networking, and has a large amount of information on the benefits of this process.

Membership sales time is coming up, and President Crane hopes to visit potential members to introduce herself and find out their views on ways the Chamber could benefit them.

The pros and cons of incorporation were discussed, but there were no pressing reasons why this should be undertaken at this time.

Volunteer week plans underway

With Volunteer Week, April 18 to 24, still almost two months away, planning is already underway to recognize the thousands of hours of work put in by Elk Point's countless volunteers.

The Volunteer Week Advisory Board held their inaugural meeting last Tuesday, with representatives of various groups on hand to give input. Volunteer Week Coordinator Daphne Schnurer explained that the purpose of Volunteer Week is to promote awareness and to enhance volunteerism in our community. The Advisory Board will help to determine events and a plan of action for a family-oriented Volunteer Week.

Community Services Director Terri Ehlert gave background information on the funding which was obtained through the Wild Rose Foundation in a joint application with the County of St. Paul FCSS and the Town of St. Paul FCSS. Each FCSS was given $3000, plus the three were given a joint $1000 grant

County school board leaves NCEASAA

Bruce Campbell
Staff Writer

The St. Paul County school board voted unanimously to leave the North Central East Alberta School Authorities Association bargaining unit Tuesday.

St. Paul County school board chairman Dwayne Lindberg said the board is inviting the Glen Avon, Regional high school and St. Paul 2228 school boards to join the County in forming a St. Paul bargaining unit for upcoming teachers' salaries negotiations.

The County sent out invitations to form a local bargaining unit last week.

St. Paul Public school board 2228 rejected the invitation to join the local bargaining unit at its board meeting Wednesday.

The St. Paul Public board chose to remain bargaining with its teachers on a one-to-one basis.

The Regional high school and Glen Avon School boards will be discussing the matter at their next board meetings.

Lindberg said the County is prepared to negotiate with its teachers on its own if a local bargaining unit cannot be formed. "I was told last year by some teachers that it would be easier to bargain if we were dealing head-to-head. Now they have the opportunity."

A contract for NCEASAA teachers for the 1991-1992 and 1992-93 contract was reached in September after a year of sometimes bitter negotiations.

Rob Thorne, negotiating chairman for St. Paul County teachers, says the board leaving the NCEASAA is "a positive step for both sides."

"We've been wanting this for a long time. We'll be dealing with the people that employ us, rather than outside boards like, Smoky Lake or Thorhild."

"We can discuss common issues that we both understand."

Negotiations for the 1993-94 contract should begin sometime in April, Thorne said.

The County school board's jurisdiction includes schools in Ashmont, Mallaig, Elk Point and Heinsburg.

The NCEASAA now consists of the Smoky Lake, Thorhild, Two Hills county school boards as well as the Regional high school and Glen Avon school boards.

RED CROSS CANVASSER - Maryann Kozicky (right) is among the many canvassers who go out each year to collect funds for the Red Cross in the Elk Point area. She was presented with a pin marking five years of campaigns by Elk Point area canvass organizer Margaret White. Five Year Pins also went to Lois Yaremkevich, Orest and Darlene Sereda and Darlene Kozicky from the Elk Point area, and Sherry Young and Debbie Johre from Heinsburg. Ben Womacks of Heinsburg received a Ten Year Pin.

Red Cross in Elk Point

Irene Magnusson

The first meeting of Elk Point and area Red Cross was on Monday, February 1, 1993. A quilt was already on the frames, ready to tie, when the ladies arrived. Created by Edith Mitchell, it became another in the long list of quilts, made by loving care and distributed as Emergency Relief by Red Cross in Alberta.

Due to renovations at the United Church, where the group has been meeting for some years, the scene of activity was shifted to the Modin home, east of town, where the roomy basement allows a quilt frame and the action. Modins generously served lunch, following completion of the 'knotty' work.

The meeting ensued, with eight present, Violet McFadyen in the Chair. Secretary Margaret Modin read minutes of the November meeting, with reports on the fall Tea and Sale. A total of $443.66 was realized.

Margaret White, who is in charge of the Red Cross canvass in the area, gave a report, the "Treasure Hunt," mail-in effort to raise funds, had not been resoundingly successful, but will be continued another season; suggestions were made re: her report to Head Office, when she attends. The 'lost' charter came in for some discussion, with a motion that the group will become a Local Advisory Committee to Red Cross (LAC) being carried.

Chairman McFadyen asked members to bring their 'volunteer hours' to the March 1 meeting, which will also be the Annual Meeting. Adjourned at 1:15, by the Chair.

GOOD NEIGHBORS - Pan Canadian Petroleum makes a special effort to be good neighbors to the communities they work in. Here, Bryan Campbell of Pan Canadian (right) presents Elsie Zarowny and Metro Buksa with a $1500 donation to King George Community Association, which is presently raising money for a new roof for their hall. Campbell said Pan Canadian looks forward to further interaction with the group, and was "happy we can help out."

Friends get pin rights

The Peter Fidler pins which became so popular during the Bicentennial year will not become extinct, thanks to the efforts of the Friends of the Forts.

Upon hearing that the Town was returning to their pre-Bicentennial lakeland logo design, the Friends approached the Town to ask if they could take over purchase and sale of the Fidler pins. Council has agreed to the proposal, and Councillor Vern King said he was "pleased to see someone taking over" the unique pin which is a replica of Elk Point's giant landmark.

Elders in conclave

Irene Magnusson

Somewhat under forty members gathered in the Seniors' Recreation Centre Tuesday, February 9, to hear reports and totals of the past few months' activities. President Lillian Palinka opened with her agenda at 2 p.m.

Secretary Hazel Hannah delivered the minutes, mentioning the major purchase of a new piano, and reported the Auditing will be done by March 31.

Irene Miller, the group's treasurer, gave her report. Income is derived chiefly from bingos and rent of the facility. All appeared to be going well. One member suggested a written report would be more readily understood, and was assured there would be one available at the Annual Meeting, coming up.

A quantity of decorative plates depicting the Recreation Centre were ordered and are now on hand and selling well. Violet McFadyen was in charge of this.

Sid Holthe reported payments on the Building Account, including GST. All proceeding well there.

Bids on the old piano had been received; these were read. A motion to accept the highest bid was carried; the piano sold to the Elk Point Baptist Church.

It was agreed that any Memorial funds received would now go only to fixtures of a permanent nature to the hall; a donated cheque was received for this account.

A suggestion to apply for several more bingos in St. Paul was agreed to; bingo being a major source of funding.

A visit by the Hon. Dianne Mirosh, Minister responsible for Seniors, went well, it was reported, with concerns of Seniors presented.

Holthe presented a number of plates, in appreciation, on behalf of the members.

Several events of interest to seniors are upcoming: "Keep Your House In Order," among them. The Dance Committee reported, handing in a cheque for $500, all going well. Several floor curling events are on tap, with plans afoot. Some troubles were found with the pop machine. New janitors have been hired and are doing well. Motions were carried to accept the decisions reached. Seniors Games will be in Provost. March 16 is "Fun Day" in Viking. The Pot Luck supper was planned for Tuesday, February 16, all members welcome.

Correspondence was read; "Volunteer Week" is April 18 to 24 in Elk Point, a Breast Cancer Clinic coming up March 12, 15, 16 and 17, in Elk Point and St. Paul, persons to make appointments if desired.

The lively meeting adjourned at 3:15, coffee and snacks were available.

Volunteer week plans underway

for joint endeavors, which will include a speaker and a pamphlet on volunteering. This is the last year for Volunteer Week grants, which Ms Ehlert feels is regrettable, since in times of fiscal restraint, communities rely more and more on volunteers.

Some of the funding is going toward two special visits which will be part of the Volunteer Week kickoff on the evening of Sunday, April 18. The Fab Two Theatre Group will be presenting a special Volunteer Week play entitled "Little Red Volunteer Hood," and this will be followed by dynamic speaker Jon Lee Kootnekoff, who will be giving a presentation on volunteering. This evening will be open to all the community's volunteers and admission will be free of charge.

In addition to the events sponsored with the Volunteer Week funding, community groups are being encouraged to honor their own volunteers in some way. Ms Schnurer will be making personal presentations to a number of groups that don't normally do much about volunteer recognition.

The Advisory Board is also looking at further joint events for later in the week. Numerous ideas, from a videotape of volunteers at work to a radio trivia contest, have been suggested.

The Advisory Board's next meeting is Tuesday, March 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Services Centre, and more input is very welcome.

What's Happening At COMMUNITY SERVICES

PARTICIPATION APPRECIATED - Lynn Proskiw of Elk Point Community Services thanked Lyle Yerama, President of Elk Point Curling Club, for his group's willingness to contribute free ice time for the Family Day events. Unfortunately, the Club's compressor broke down and the rink was closed that weekend.

ACTIVE LIVING IDEAS

"I don't want to be a star. I just want to be able to throw a ball around with my kids without getting tired." That's the response of a 40 year old father when I asked him why he wanted to start an activity program.

I have been lucky. With my work in fitness over the years - doing counselling, designing individual activity programs, and teaching classes - I have met many wonderful people.

It always fascinates me to learn why they want to be active - their motives for moving, you might say. Each person has his or her own particular reasons for starting an activity program, or staying with it, day in, day out, from one year to the next.

These motives fall, more or less, into three categories. I call them the 3 P's. People have physical, practical and philosophical (or psychological) reasons.

The physical motivators can get you started. Many people launch a physical activity program because they know they should, they know it's good for them.

Some use activity as a way to lose weight. Others with low back pain might join a class designed to help with their specific problem. And a systematic exercise program is a common part of rehabilitation for all sorts of injuries and accidents.

While physical motivators get you started, practical motivators give you staying power. When I was managing a fitness centre, I made a point of asking all participants some weeks after they started their program, what they thought it was doing for them.

Somewhere in their "testimonial" I almost always heard the simple but important phrase: "I feel better." When I heard this, I knew they were on their way.

This "feeling better" comes in many forms. One participant, for example, told me he noticed an improvement in his golf swing after he started doing some exercises.

Another said he used to stop and rest at the top of a steep path between his garage and house. After a few weeks of cycling, he said, "On Saturday I climbed the stairs with my 2 year old daughter in one arm and a bag of potatoes in the other. I got into the house before it dawned on me I had climbed the stairs and wasn't the least bit out of breath."

A third individual, responding to a questionnaire asking what value she found in the class she attended, replied, "I arrive a lazy, tired and rheumatically cranky middle-aged lady, and leave full of vitality and well-being toward the world in general. I have not felt so happy for a long time. This overflows into my working life. I find I am better able to cope.. I sincerely mean this."

Powerful motivators, these. In another column I'll look at the third, less tangible, motive for moving.

Why not lighten up!

When was the last time you laughed so hard your sides ached?

We need more room in our lives for good times. When you have fun, good things happen in body and mind.

A sense of humor can bring balance to an otherwise stressful day, help you communicate more effectively, and bridge gaps between people.

A sense of humor can also give you strength to cope and stay "flexible and fluid" in periods of change and difficulty.

Research confirms that good things happen in your body and mind when you're having a good laugh.

Muscles release tension as they tighten and relax. Your cardiovascular system gets a mini-workout as heart rate and blood pressure rise and fall. Endorphins are released into the blood system, producing what's called a "runner's high." And in these lighter moments, you're also opening up blocks in your thinking and problem solving.

Some tips for those who'd like to inject a bit of productive levity into their day-to-day routines:

- Commit to fun: People who believe that good times have a positive effect in their personal lives also tend to bring humor to their job.

- Schedule time for fun: Make room for it in your meetings, work day and week.

- Get together: Once, it wasn't uncommon for people to drop in unexpectedly and visit a spell. Don't forget the benefits of such short, cheery respites.

- Work with fun people: If you're recruiting members for a committee, consider those who are enjoyable to work with. People who take delight in their lives and labors tend to be motivated to get things done.

- Separate yourself from the problem, as in: "I'm doing fine, but my job is having a heck of a day."

- Be careful: What's funny to you may not necessarily be funny to someone else. Remember this in your relationships.

- Recognize and reward: Only a few win the big lottery, the Oscar or the Stanley Cup. But everyone's eligible for life's small pleasures, including an all-important pat on the back.

MEN / WOMEN: CAN THEY COMMUNICATE?

Growing up into manhood can be compared to hockey. As a young boy you learn to stand on skates and then progress to skating. As you grow and develop so do your skills. You learn to check, stick handle, to shoot and score! Hockey plays and manoeuvres become second nature to you. Then as a man, you meet your "significant other." Much to your surprise you discover that she thinks the game should be tennis!

Male / female communication is not a simple matter. Learn how to make sure you are crossing the barriers by attending a workshop on how to understand and speak the different languages of the sexes.

Attend Men / Women: Can They Communicate between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. on Saturday, February 27 at the Further Education Centre. Please bring a brown bag lunch. As an extra incentive, all men can attend the workshop for half price ($2.50)! Call 724-4101 to register or for more information.

65 and counting

In nineteen hundred and ninety two
My working days shall all be through,
I'll be the happiest person alive,
For then I shall be sixty-five.

Each month I watch those old folks grin
Each month those pension cheques roll in,
Each month they get that bit of gold
All simply just for being old.

Whoever thought we'd see the day
When getting old meant getting pay,
And if you're paying too much rent
You just apply for supplement.

And if that isn't quite enough
You get all kinds of other stuff,
Like discounts off, on bus and planes,
And then you also get the gains.

And ten percent off all your clothes,
Plus Senior rates on first run shows;
And travel tours are all the rage -
But only if you "come of age."

Now if I'd known when I was twenty
The real true meaning of the land of plenty,
I would have moved both heaven and earth
To falsify my date of birth.

So politicians please take note,
You'll wish you'd lost by just one vote
When I wake up in ninety-three

And even worse if on that morn
Old Gabriel should blow his horn
He'd better plan to keep on blowing -
Without my pension - I'm not going!

'92 — The final months

Our final segment of the Year In Review has been delayed by space constraints, but we are finally here with a rundown of the highlights from the final months of 1992.

October

Elk Point DID have the biggest pumpkin at the World Pumpkin Growers' Weigh Off in Smoky Lake, as predicted way back in February, but alas! It weighed only 42 pounds and was constructed largely of recycled Reviews. However, Deputy Mayor Mandryk and Councillor Louis Verhagen were congratulated on the good sportsmanship and ingenuity they faced the challenge with, after early frost claimed all of Elk Point's pumpkin crop...Plans for a multi-use facility were still on hold, after a year's wait for additional funding...Peter Fidler Peace Park was duly dedicated, along with five hundred other peace parks across the nation and the National Peacekeeping Monument in Ottawa...Municipal elections saw Ed Buck back in the mayor's chair after six years' absence, while five new councillors, Betty Callbeck, Mae Hendrickson, Vern King, Dan Povaschuk and Bill Schuhmacher, joined lone incumbent Lawrence Pidluzny around the Town Council table...Buck also won back his School Board seat...Bob Smith was returned in Division 1 of the County, while newcomer Ray Danyluk was elected in Division 2. Marvin Bjornstad retained his Ward 2 seat on the Hospital Board...A pre-election forum was jointly sponsored by the Pioneer

Circle and Chamber of Commerce and was well attended...The voting wasn't over yet, as Elk Point voted "No" on the Charlottetown Accord...Ron and Sharon Smith were named Elk Point's Small Business Persons of the year.

November

Fort George - Buckingham House Interpretive Centre welcomed Peter Fidler historian Bruce Haig as a special guest at their Guy Fawkes Day celebration... Five new Beavers, nine new Cubs and one new leader were inducted by the Elk Point Scouting Association...Books were 'Eggstra Special' at Elk Point Elementary during Book Festival Week, while Alberta author Mary Woodbury visited the FGM students...Elk Point found a warm new way to commemorate Remembrance Day - indoors, in the Seniors' Recreation Centre...Five occupants of two trucks were injured in a collision on Highway 28...Entertainment of a kind seen "Once In A Blue Moon" took the spotlight at F.G. Miller High...The long awaited moment when the long term care addition and renovations of the existing Elk Point Hospital could go to tender were proudly announced by MLA John Drobot, Board Chairman John Mohyluk and Administrator Clem Johnson...Junior A hockey fans were disappointed when a lighting failure in the arena caused the Calgary Royals to opt out of their Elk Point debut against Bonnyville Pontiacs...Three briefs, two dealing with the hospital and one with tourism, were presented to the NADC by Elk Point residents...Elk Point Historical Society earned a Recognition of Contributions award from the Alberta Museums Association, with Frank Mayner accepting the award...The Alberta Progressive Conservative Leadership race ended in a photo finish between Nancy Betkowski and Ralph Klein, with a second vote carried over into

December

...when Klein won a decisive victory, largely due to the rural vote...Heinsburg got a head start on Christmas, with a Community School Family Christmas Concert and supper...Elk Point's Christmas Extravaganza promoted local shopping, and gave out $720 in Elk Point Bucks so the winners of the event's contests could do even more local shopping...Pan Canadian Petroleum held two open house meetings to announce plans for expanding their operations in 1993...The Community Choir was in fine voice for their annual Christmas Concert...F.G. Miller High School also offered an evening of musical entertainment to welcome the Christmas season...The Ghost of Christmas Past and Peter Fidler were among the personalities on stage at this year's Elementary School Christmas Concerts...Elk Point shone for Christmas with a great display of lights for the Chamber's lighting contest judges to choose from...The Elk Point Golf and Country Club ended the year looking forward to grass greens in 1993.

Fur trappers ball

Dear Editor:

I would like to extend a word of thanks to everyone in Elk Point and area who helped to make the 2nd Annual Fur Trappers Ball the memorable occasion that it was. Participation came from all corners of our community: from the Elementary School students and teachers who created artwork to decorate our tables, to the senior citizens who allowed us the use of the beautiful recreation centre, to the merchants who provided many generous donations. People from many neighboring communities came to Elk Point for this event, and they were favorably impressed with the hospitality they received. Thanks again.

Another point of view for teens

Bridget Montgomery

Another Point of View is for teens to talk about problems they're facing. All letters will be presented confidentially. Please write to: Another Point of View, c/o Elk Point Review, Box 309, Point, AB., T0A 1A0.

Dear Bridget:

I am so angry I can't stand it! A classmate told me her mother was talking to my mother about a personal problem I was having and now about a million other people know. Why do parents think they can tell anybody anything? My mother said I was overreacting when I told her everyone was talking about me. She said she talks to her friends to get their advice so she can help me.

Dear Writer:

Most of us have someone we share things with or look to for advice. The problem arises when personal information is not treated as confidential. It seems to me that your mother's friend was at fault in sharing privileged information, and your mother needs to look at that and address it with her friend. Parents are forever sharing with their friends what their children are up to. It often comes as a surprise that all of a sudden things going on in their children's lives are private and need to be treated as such. It is part of the transition taking place in the growing relationship between parent and child. Sometimes parents aren't aware of it until a problem arises and they are forced to see their child in a new light, as a developing young adult.

If parents want their children to remain open and continue sharing with them, they must respect their child's needs for privacy and confidentiality.

Furthermore, anyone who is in a privileged position of having personal information about others needs to observe this value even if they think the information they are sharing is harmless because it's "just about kids."

Dear Bridget:

My boyfriend is going to break up with me if I don't have sex with him. I don't want to lose him but I'm afraid to have sex. I'm only 13. What can I do?

Dear Writer:

I have lots of thoughts about what you have asked. You have raised a very serious question. I urge you to contact your school counsellor (the FCSS counsellor) or contact the Family Life Program at the North Eastern Alberta Health Unit, 645-3396. You can discuss this problem in confidence with either organization. I'm sure they will help you with your decision.

The Oxford Companion to Music is the most famous of all one volume musical encyclopedias. It contains over a million words on all aspects of music, lucidly and entertainingly presented, and nearly a thousand illustrations. This well-loved classic remains valuable for every musician and lover of music.

With The Waste Lands, the third masterful novel in Stephen King's epic saga The Dark Tower you again enter the realm of the mightiest imagination of our time.

In the library's Large Print section, we have the following books: After Frost, The Spring by Janet Beaton - Marianne travels to Spain with Nick, who does not want to meet his new-found relatives. In these two western books, Buchanan On The Pro and Buchanan's Range War by Jonas Ward, an army of hired killers were stealing from anyone who refused to sell their land.

For our Juvenile readers, we have four new books in the 'Best Friends' series by Hilda Stahl: Roxie and the Red Rose Mystery No. 5, Kathy's New Brother No. 6, A Made-Over Chelsea No. 7 and No Friends For Hannah No. 8 Also, for our western juvenile reader, we have the following two books in the Nathan T Riggins Western Adventure series by author Stephen Bly: The Dog Who Would Not Smile and Coyote True.

Princesses Don't Wear Jeans by Brenda Bellingham - Tilly Perkins sure is different, she dresses funny and tells amusing stories. Jeff thinks Tilly is fun, but the other kids think she's weird.

NEARTA meets

Selma Reed

North Eastern Alberta Retired Teachers Association held a meeting in Glendon February 16 with 33 members present. The meeting was held at the Community Cafe followed by floor curling at the Seniors Drop-In Centre. The next meeting is to be held in Elk Point June 15 at 10:00 a.m. in the Seniors' Recreation Centre, followed by a pot-luck picnic lunch.

EIGHTY YEARS YOUNG - Grace Barwick was recently joined by a large group of friends in the celebration of her eightieth birthday at a gathering held in the Empress Banquet Room. Best wishes for many more, Mrs. Barwick! Photo by Irene Magnusson.

CRUSTACEAN IDENTIFIED - A large and puzzling crustacean was pulled from the water intake at Canadian Salt Plant last November, and was taken to the Fish and Wildlife Office in St. Paul in hopes that it could be identified. Dr. Hugh Clifford of the University of Alberta has now identified the creature as a female of the genus Arconectes, species Varilis, otherwise known as a crayfish. The species is native to Alberta's Beaver River, but is not normally found in the North Saskatchewan. What is most unusual about this specimen is its very large size, which was close to three times that of the usual 2 to 3 inch long crayfish. Identification of the creature was made more difficult because it was a female, Dr. Clifford said.

Thunder update

Glenn Harms
Thunder Reporter

The Elk Point Midget Thunder continue their preparations for the 1993 Alberta Championships. On Sunday, February 21, the Thunder dropped a hard fought 9-7 decision to the Lloydminster Blazers. Even though the game was an exhibition match both teams used it as a tuneup for upcoming zone championships. Roger deMoissac played an outstanding second and third period after coming in for the shell-shocked Dwayne Porcina who found himself under full attack in the first period. The game was rough and tough, and at several times had the atmosphere of a playoff game. Danny Flett emerged as the star of the game after a four goal and three assist performance.

There is no time to rest for the Thunder as they face the Marwayne Midget Elks at the A.G. Ross Arena this Friday in the first game of the Zone 2 Championship. Marwayne is coming off a big upset win over the Fort Saskatchewan Midget Traders last week and are going to be a handful for the Thunder. Coach Ron Dunlop finds himself in a familiar place this year as he tries to prepare his team for the Provincial Championships which are being held in Elk Point on March 19, 20 and 21.

Midget 'C' provincials need community support

The Elk Point and District Minor Hockey Association has been given the honor of hosting the 1993 Provincial Midget 'C' Hockey Championships. The tournament, which consists of midget players age 16 and 17, will be held on March 19, 20 and 21, 1993 at the A. G. Ross Arena in Elk Point. Last year this tournament was hosted by Elk Point as well, and proved to be a tremendous success. Elk Point is honored to have been given this opportunity for two consecutive years.

The tournament consists of 8 teams, each zone winner from Zones 1 to 7 across Alberta, as well as the host team, Elk Point Thunder. Hockey action gets underway at 8:00 a.m. Friday, March 19 with the tournament semi-finals and championship game running on Sunday, March 21. These are the best teams in Alberta in 'C' category and always provide very exciting action for everyone. The opening ceremonies, which will present all teams in full uniform, will be held Friday evening.

A tournament of this calibre always requires support from the entire community. There are eleven committees set up to organize this tournament. The business and industrial sections in Elk Point, as well as groups, organizations and individuals, have been very generous with their support. If you wish to help with this tournament in any way, and have not been contacted, please call Shirley Harms, Tournament Chairman, at 724-4413 days, or 724-3770 evenings. If you can help in the concession, please call Gillian Cousins at 724-4483. If you can help with the games as a goal judge or in the penalty box, please call Micheal Chubey at 724-3128.

Remember to mark these dates on your calendar, as you will not want to miss this very exciting event in Elk Point.

Elks split pair with Mustangs

Tuesday's SaskAlta Round Robin game in Dewberry was an exciting one, with the Elk Point Elks and Dewberry Mustangs tied 6-6 at the end of regulation time. Kerry Laughran scored the winning goal to break the tie in the Elks' favor.

The return game saw the A.G. Ross arena packed with fans for more exciting action. Both teams were in their prime, and the game remained scoreless for 17 minutes, until Dewberry's Kenny Lawrence hit the scoreboard with 2:29 left in the first period, off assists by Dennis McCormick and Colin Zack. Kent Boyd made it 2-0 for the Mustangs just over a minute later, with assists by Alan Parr and Blair

Hanna. Dewberry made it 3-0 early in the second period, with Hanna scoring off assists by Darcy Whitlock and Gerry Kjenner.

Elk Point's first goal came a minute after the half way mark, with a power play by Layne Gauchier, assisted by George Ward. A second goal in the period, by Lindsay Jenner, assisted by George Ward and Kerry Loughran, narrowed the gap to a single point.

The third period was scoreless until just 16 seconds were left on the clock. The Elks pulled their goalie in an attempt to score, but ended up two points short as Dennis McCormick scored into the empty net.

ELKS 10 - MUSTANGS 3

The Elks took a commanding lead in the next home and home series, when they defeated Kitscoty Monarchs 10 - 3 Sunday in Kitscoty. Cory Laboucane scored four of the Elks goals, while Greg Rheame added three, and Jon Olson, Greg Desaulniers and Kerry Loughran added singles. Assists were by Terry Wozniak (3), Greg Desaulniers (3), Mike Boratynec (2), Layne Gauchier (2), Kerry Loughran, Jason Pankiw, Dwayne Karbaszewski and Greg Rheame.

The Monarchs will be in Elk Point tomorrow night for the return game at 8:30 p.m.

Pacers mark 20 years of tournaments

Elk Point Pacers marked twenty years of annual basketball tournaments this past weekend, with the host team losing out in the consolation round by a one basket margin to the Edmonton Shooters.

Tofield defeated the Edmonton Sixers to take the 1993 Championship trophy, sponsored by Coca-Cola Bottling, St. Paul, a commemorative basketball donated by E-Can Oilfield Service, and individual trophies donated by Dr. Miller, Dr. Shapka Professional Corporation, Dr. Hodinsky Professional Corporation, North Park Collision and Phil's Hardware and Variety.

Tofield also boasted the 10-team tournament's MVP, Mike Kornak, who received a ball donated by the Co-Operators.

Bantams win first round

Bantam Lightning has won their first round of Provincial playoffs against Lloydminster on Tuesday, February 9, with a 12 - 0 shutout, with Eddy James in goal. Lightning totally controlled the game, and allowed Lloydminster very few shots on goal.

Watch for announcements on the next round of Provincial action.

The Sixers accepted a team trophy from Rose's Catering, and individual trophies from Speedy Lube, Speedy Mart, Loree's TV and St. Paul Sales and Service, as well as a commemorative ball from the Empress Restaurant.

Edmonton Shooters were presented with a consolation trophy donated by Hillside Service, a set of water bottles, and a ball bag donated by Higgins Travel.

The First Allstar Team was made up of Troy Wright (Sixers), Rick McGee (Sixers), Mark Baker (Shooters), Tracy Ham (Hooters) and Frank Mrkonjic (Tofield). They received plaques from Lakeland Tire, Ultimate Auto Upholstery and Elk Point Insurance.

The Second Allstars were Dan Schiltroth (Knights), Kevin Matthews (Sizzlers), Rob Wild (Shooters), Daniel Trehan (Pacers) and Curt Osterman (Hooters), who took home plaques from Eastgate Chrysler, Guardian Drugs, Home-town Grocers, BMW Monarch and Imperial Oil.
